May 20, 2003 Isle of Rugen, Germany -

Invisiblecircle.de is reporting five crop formations in Germany as of May 18, 2003. All five are on the Isle of Rugen in the Baltic Sea at the far most eastern corner of Germany. In 2002, most of Germany's formations were also on the Isle of Rugen which is an island 35 miles long and 25 miles wide with 400-foot-high chalk cliffs and covered with ancient burial mounds and stone circles.

All five formations have been in yellow flowering oilseed rape such as the field below near the village of Scharpitz discovered on May 10. In fact, four of the five formations so far have been near Scharpitz; the first on May 1 was discovered near Altefahr. As in previous years of formations on the Isle of Rugen, the patterns in 2003 are variations on circles, corridors and concentric rings.
