August 30, 2007 Albuquerque, New Mexico - According to the December 1974 issue of Astronomy magazine, “The two stars that comprise the Zeta Reticuli system are almost identical to the sun. Each is classified as a G2 star, the same as our sun. They are the only known examples of two solar type stars apparently linked into a binary star system of wide separation. Zeta 1 is separated from Zeta 2 by at least 350 billion miles - almost one hundred times the sun-Pluto distance. The two suns probably require at least 100,000 years to orbit their common center of gravity. The binary stars are in the constellation Reticulum (The Net), which is 37.5 light years from our solar system. Reticulum is visible from Earth's Southern Hemisphere. Both Zeta 1 and Zeta 2 are prime candidates for the search for life beyond Earth. According to our current theories of planetary formation, they both have a retinue of planets something like our solar system.”

In that December 1974 issue of Astronomy was a 15-page article entitled “The Zeta Reticuli Incident” by astronomer and author, Terence Dickinson. His article began:

“A faint pair of stars, 220 trillion miles away, has been tentatively identified as the ‘home base’ of intelligent extraterrestrials who allegedly visited Earth in 1961. This hypothesis is based on a strange, almost bizarre series of events mixing astronomical research with hypnosis, amnesia, and alien humanoid creatures.

“The two stars are known as Zeta 1 and Zeta 2 Reticuli, or together, as simply Zeta Reticuli. They are each fifth magnitude stars - barely visible to the unaided eye- located in the obscure southern constellation Reticulum. this southerly sky location makes Zeta Reticuli invisible to observers north of Mexico City's latitude."

The hypnosis, amnesia and alien humanoid creatures that Mr. Dickinson referred to are from the Betty and Barney Hill abduction case in the White Mountains of New Hampshire on their way home to Portsmouth on September 19, 1961. The events and efforts to unlock missing time with psychiatrist, Benjamin Simon, M. D., were detailed in the book, The Interrupted Journey © 1966 by John G. Fuller. Betty and Barney Hill were apparently abducted from New Hampshire's White Mountains by bumpy, grey-skinned beings in shiny, all-black body suits. Betty drew a star map under hypnosis, which she said was shown to her by "the leader" on the craft.

Years later, when U. S. amateur astronomer Marjorie Fish began to compare Betty Hill's drawing to stars in the local neighborhood of the Earth, she discovered a match which included Zeta Reticuli 1 and 2. Betty Hill said those two stars were the starting point of trade routes shown with multiple lines in graphic below and that our sun (yellow arrow) was at the end of one supposedly regular trade route.

Astronomy, December 1974: "Top diagram is a copy of the map Betty Hill drew under hypnosis, allegedly a duplicate of one she saw inside an extraterrestrial vehicle. (Yellow arrow denotes our Sun.) Center map is derived from a model of our stellar neighborhood by Marjorie Fish. It shows the stars that coincide with those on the Hill map. The only area of significant incongruity is the wide separation of Zeta Reticuli in the Hill version (with multiple lines between binary stars). Lower computer-generated map shows a cathode ray tube computer readout that was run at Ohio State University as a check on the Fish model. Data used to derive the Fish model and the computer readout were taken from the Gliese catalog." Graphic © 1974 by Astronomy.

Government Insiders - 1985

I met two men in 1985, who claimed to have government insider knowledge about an extraterrestrial civilization in the binary star system, Zeta Reticuli, 37.5 light-years from Earth. One man was retired in Washington, D. C., and the other continued government assignments in the southwest. Both said they had worked for a secret group, which continued from the MJ-12 (Majestic Twelve) of the Truman Administration in the 1940s. The men also claimed some knowledge about other non-human types referred to simply as

"Greys," or "little guys," which they did not trust.

Other categories of alien life forms that confused the situation even more, they said, were biological androids that ranged widely in appearance from insects to humanoids designed by their makers for various planetary tasks. To protect their identity at their request, I have combined their information in the single name, Sherman.

I asked Sherman, "Why would the Ebens have come here in the first place?"

"I don't know the whole story, but I've been told the Ebens come from Zeta Reticuli 1 and 2, a binary star system about 38 light-years from Earth."

Sherman said it was true that MJ-12 was established by one of President Harry S. Truman's Executive Orders in 1947. MJ-12's charter, he said, was to study the UFO phenomenon, to oversee retrievals of crashed discs and alien bodies, to back-engineer extraterrestrial technology and to study captured beings referred to as "extraterrestrial biological entities" (EBENs). MJ-12, he said, was also directed to keep the public ignorant of the extraterrestrial presence "at all costs" to prevent public panic and to keep the aliens' advanced technology hidden from Cold War enemies in the interests of national security.

DOD's Extraterrestrial Space Command Directorate, E2SCD

In the 1990s, Sherman said MJ-12 had evolved to a different letter number code that began "E2" - perhaps related to an alleged black budget military organization with the Defense Department called E2SCD, the Extraterrestrial Space Command Directorate. I asked Sherman if he had personally seen non-human technology.

"I've held an Eben communicator that's called the Yellow Book - I guess because the letters and words look like yellow light. The book doesn't have any pages. It's a rectangle about fifteen inches by nineteen inches. If you saw it laying on a table, you would think it was a flat piece of plastic with a light grey metallic sheen. But when you pick it up in your hands, the words start appearing and they are a yellow color. You move your eyes along as the words appear and they just keep coming as you read. Once you get to the bottom, the next page starts, followed by the next page, and the next page over and over on the same surface. I don't know how it works.

"When you turn it over, there are 3-D holographic photos or some kind of imagery that seems to pop upward in the air. You're supposed to be able to control the sequence by knowing how to move the book at different angles. I was told the Ebens know how to capture time and play it back in 3-dimensional images. There are actual manuals about how to hold it to read and see the images. But I didn't have any instruction, so in the hour I held it, I learned only a few things.

"The Yellow Book had Earth history."

"How do the Ebens communicate in English or any human language?"

"I don't know. I don't know how the translation works. When I read the Yellow Book, it was in English. Maybe it picks up brainwave patterns and can interact in the language of any user."

"And it's in the act of picking the Yellow Book up that it's activated?"

"Yes."

"When you turned it to the back, you could see holographic-like projections of images come out into the air that related to where you were reading on the front side?"

"No, when you turned it over, you hold the square side of the book and hold it up at different angles. As you slightly move it, different pictures project out."

"Were the pictures related to where you left off in the words?"

"Not really. You have to have instructions. I didn't know at what angle to hold it. I just played with it and saw different pictures not necessarily related to what I had already read. Now if I had a chance to read it again, I understand there is a pattern you start with and keep moving in different patterns to project images about what you are reading."

"Was sound associated with the images?"

"No, no sound. Years later after I saw the Yellow Book, someone told me there are sounds connected with the pictures. But I never hard any sounds. Maybe it was something I did wrong or I didn't move it right."

"How did the MJ-12 group get the Yellow Book?"

"The Ebens gave it to us back on April 25, 1964, when they landed at White Sands for a prearranged meeting and stayed for awhile. The day before when police officer, Lonnie Zamora, saw a craft and beings near Socorro was a coordination mistake of some kind. The Ebens landed twelve hours too early and too far west. We got it corrected somehow and they returned around 6 AM the next morning to the right place (at Trinity Site in northern end of White Sands). By the way, Zamora drew those Eben symbols perfectly."

UFO researcher, Chris Lambright, says this oil painting is based on photographs taken at the landing site where police officer, Lonnie Zamora, saw the egg-shaped craft. "The image portrays the object just as it began to lift off and from a viewpoint near where Mr. Zamora reportedly stood. Mr. Zamora has seen this illustration and stated that it is a good representation of what he observed, though he felt that the 'legs' might have been extended slightly further than is portrayed. The dimensions presented however are taken from both the witness description and the exact measurements provided by investigators of the impressions in the soil." Oil painting © by Patrick Richard.

"When you and your group have face-to-face communications with Ebens, how does it work?"

"The April 25, 1964, meeting with Ebens was in Red Canyon about eighteen miles east of the Trinity site (first atomic bomb test in July 1945) at the north end of White Sands Proving Ground.

[ Editor's Note: Trinity Site is where the first atomic bomb of 19 kilotons was exploded at 5:29:45 a.m. Mountain War Time on July 16, 1945. Red Canyon Range Camp was in the northeast corner of White Sands Proving Ground (later named White Sands Missile Range) and was opened in October 1953 by Fort Bliss as a place to conduct Nike Ajax training and annual service firings. At the time, Fort Bliss did not have the necessary area for such a mission. White Sands allowed the use of the northeast corner of the range as a temporary facility. Source: White Sands Missile Range history.]

We also had a decoy hangar set up at Holloman AFB just in case there was a leak. They had a disinformation program to draw people's attention to Holloman when in actuality, the landing was further north. After the Ebens landed in one of their egg-shaped ships, they had devices that looked like large wands. A wand was handed to our commander. When he spoke into the wand, the Eben language came out in another wand held by one of the Ebens. When the Eben spoke into his wand, English words came out of the wand the commander was holding, sort of like a loud speaker."

"Sherman, that sounds like the communicator rod depicted in the drawing that Allan Sandler and Robert Emenegger published based on actual photographs and film of an extraterrestrial meeting near Holloman AFB. Do the Ebens have a large, beaked nose like that drawing?"

"Absolutely not. The Ebens are one of the types that crashed in 1947. They're about four and a half to five feet all, grey-skinned, four long, skinny fingers, flat face, very small nose, small openings for ears, and a slit for a mouth. Their eyes are large with a black lid, which can cover 'cat eyes' underneath. Those eyes have a gold-colored iris around a dark, vertical slit pupil. And they wear a tight-fitting, greyish-white jump suit."

"Then is the big-nosed drawing made up?"

"No, I've seen the film of that meeting at Red Canyon and there was a tall, almost human-like alien that stood behind the Ebens. And it appeared that he had a big nose. He was wearing some kind of strange looking armor that reminded me of Egyptian stuff and he had on a helmet that went up high. He never talked. He was just there. That was the only one like that in the whole encounter."

"So, what is the relationship between the Ebens and the big-nosed guy?"

"I don't know. He reminded me of a soldier guarding."

"Is there any connection to Egypt and Sumeria?"

"I think so. I know I read that the Ebens had also spent almost twenty years living among the Mayans who had stepped pyramids like the ziggurats of Sumeria. The report said the Mayans worshipped the Ebens. I've often wondered if the rituals of human sacrifice by females and warriors were inspired by the Ebens."

"You mean, 'food for the gods?'"

"Yeah. I don't know if the Ebens visited periodically over twenty years or actually lived in the Yucatan and Guatemala area for twenty years. But there was some kind of Eben influence on the Mayans at some point. In fact, it's interesting that Mayan and Mongolian babies are sometimes born with odd blue marks on the lower spine. And what I've been told is that the Ebens experimented genetically in Bhutan, Tibet and Nepal and then transplanted some of those altered humans to what we call Central America."

"Then, Sherman, is it true that the Ebens and maybe other extraterrestrial groups manipulated DNA in already-evolving primates to create Homo sapiens sapiens as I was shown in a briefing paper at Kirtland AFB in 1983?

"Yes, but it's a difficult subject. All I can tell you is something Ebe One said: 'We made you. We put you here. But you have to live it.' And they watch us grow. They've been here since at least the time of the dinosaurs ( 250 million to 65 million years ago; hominids beginning with Homo erectus are only about 1 million-years-old; oldest archaic Homo sapiens-like hominids are only about 200,000-years-old). And according to a report I read, the Ebens collected one of each species of dinosaur and placed them either in one big planetary zoo or on different planets. And that was at least 68 million or more years ago."

"Sherman, if the Ebens did collect all the dinosaur species and preserve them, do you know what happened that caused almost total annihilation of Earth life during that period in Earth's history?"

"I read in the Yellow Book that the Ebens knew back then that a very large asteroid was going to hit the Earth. The Ebens wrote that they were saving one of each species that was on this planet - not just the dinosaurs, but the ants and insects, flies, snakes, fish. The Ebens said they took one of everything to save all the species before the asteroid hit."

"Sort of a Noah's Ark rescue story?"

"Right. And I guess they've experimented with life forms here ever since."
